

Benefits of Crystal for Children

June 14, 2017

Enchanting Angels

Children are deep rooted in and connected to the natural world. Crystals are a key element of the natural world and play a significant part in physical, emotional and spiritual healing. Children have a deep and natural connection to the healing attributes and energies of crystals that they are drawn to from an early age.

Crystals, to some people are pretty gems, but for others they are a significant piece which have specific and powerful energies. For centuries, crystals have been used to release mental, physical and spiritual blockages. Scientifically crystals have the lowest amount of entropy (a measurement of disorder) and were forged in the initial stages of earth's formation, they are known to absorb information from a weather pattern or the experience of an ancient ceremony and pass it onto anyone that encounters them. Since crystals are formed from the earth, when in contact with a person, they help connect to the earth's healing energy, leaving you feeling more relaxed and balanced. Each crystal has unique properties and energies to enhance distinct aspects of your life.

Founder of Enchanting Angels, Corina Zappia shares how key crystals can help a child to heal and protect.

Rose Quartz Crystal an adornment on the “Angel of Love” Teddy Bear

This beautiful pink crystal gives a gentle and loving energy, that helps kids learn unconditional love, forgiveness and compassion, while also providing harmony in their relationships. The rose quartz crystal is great for kids who are experiencing anxiety or separation issues with their mother, it brings an inner healing and enhances their self-worth and confidence.

Amethyst an adornment on the “My Guardian” Angel Teddy Bear

As well as being the birthstone for February, it is the master of healing and is a gorgeous crystal of protection. This crystal will help a child who is during a time of transition such as a death of loved one, a change in location, divorce or parent going back to work. The Amethyst crystal also contains a calming and peaceful energy that prevents nightmares and gives a child a better night's sleep. Overall the amethyst is a crystal that acts as a guardian protecting them throughout life.

The Green Aventurine an adornment on “Hope, Angel of Healing” Teddy Bear

Considered a powerful healing stone, is known as the “stone of opportunity”, helps release old habits, disappointments and encourages perseverance to make room for new growth. This stone offers a lifetime of opportunity from Infancy to adulthood increasing a person's capacity to heal any areas of life when needed.

Enchanting Angels have been designed to bring smiles, hope, laughter and encouragement to children travelling through life's little adventures. Bejewelled with a crystal or gemstones, each of the Signature Enchanting Angels Teddy Bears are designed to heal and protect, help with emotional, spiritual, physical and financial wellbeing, milestones and achievements. Each provide children with unconditional love, support and the knowledge that their angels are watching over them. They are companions for life.